

Registration and Inventory Form for Trusts

Who should file this form? See the optional flow chart on page 5. However, generally, the following trusts should file:

- Trusts with a current charitable interest (including charitable lead trusts and living or revocable trusts that are now irrevocable);
- Charitable remainder trusts without a current charitable interest if one of the following is true:
 - the charitable remainder beneficiaries have not been irrevocably named;
 - a charitable remainder beneficiary may be controlled by the grantor, testator, executor, trustee, or a member of the grantor's or testator's family.

Who should not file this form?

- Trusts with no charitable interest;
- Trusts that are revocable;
- Trusts with remote, contingent charitable interests (e.g., a charity will only receive a distribution if the grantor's spouse and children all predecease the grantor).

(Corporations and unincorporated associations should not use this form. See form CTS-05 available on our website at www.michigan.gov/agcharity.)

Some answers in the following sections require a citation to the page and section of the trust or will. Please provide a citation in the following format: Cite: p. 3, sec. 5; 4th Amendment - p. 2, sec. 3
